One Man Brought to Surface Alive but Seriously Injured When Three-Quarters of a Mile From Affected Area—Cause of Blast Undetermined—King Sends Sympathetic Message

BARNSELEY, Yorkshire, England, Aug. 6 (P)—Hope was abandoned tonight for all the fifty-seven men entombed by an explosion of unexplained origin in colliery workings near here. Grim work of searching the underground passages of the coal pit went forward. Thousands kept solemn vigil at the pithead as the bodies were Rescue workers laid body beside body in ever-increasing numbers as they emerged from the workings.

SITUATION HOPELESS
Dr. James Henderson, a member of one of the rescue teams, said the situation was "hopeless."

"We reached most of the bodies," he said. "A lot of the men had been killed by the violence of the explosion. Others were lying about in attitudes suggesting they had been suffocated by gas."

The blast occurred in the colliery of the Wharfedale, Wood, Moor Company. So violent was it that Alfred Brown, who was working three-quarters of a mile from the affected area, was seriously injured. Brown was still alive tonight, but was unconscious and was said to be in grave condition.
Rescue squads found no trace of fire.

CAUSE IS UNKNOWN
Company officials said they did not know the cause of the blast, which occurred about 3:30 a.m.
Nine rescue squads quickly were organized. They were hampered in their efforts to reach the trapped men by falls of rock.

King Edward sent a message of deep sympathy to the bereaved relatives. Prime Minister Baldwin sent a similar message.

The following list of the missing men was issued tonight by the management:

SHORT SEASON FOR WILDFOWL

New Regulations Also Cut Down Bag Limit Through The Dominion

OTTAWA, Aug. 6 (P)—Stringent regulations to protect Canada's wild ducks and geese were announced today by Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Interior.

The supply of ducks and geese has been depleted seriously in recent years by drought, failure of eel grass and other causes. The new regulations provide a general reduction in the length of season and bag limit.
A maximum of two months was provided; baiting and live waterfowl decoys were prohibited. Bag limits were not to exceed twelve ducks per day and 100 for the season, and five geese per day and fifty for the season. The sale of waterfowl, largely prohibited now, is closed except in the extreme North.

SERIOUSLY DEPLETED
For months the Interior Department has been investigating conditions across Canada. It found the supply of birds depleted seriously from over-shooting and severe drought on the Prairies.
Migratory birds on the continent are controlled by a treaty between Canada and the United States. The Canadian regulations are not as drastic as the American laws, where the hunter's bag limit is ten ducks and four geese per day.

Under the new regulations, British Columbia's hunting season is: Ducks and geese, September 15 to November 15, except in electoral districts of Omineca, Fort George, Peace River, Athol and the Eastern district of Skeena, where it will be from September 1 to October 31.

Insane Asylum Is Left in Ruins by Colorado Flood

PUEBLO, Colo., Aug. 6 (P)—Flood waters, fed by a cloudburst, overflowed Eastern Colorado tonight, spreading damage through the state hospital for the insane. Two hundred insane patients were rushed to safety from the hospital as the flood toppled eight buildings, swept two others into the swollen Fountain River and cut a deep wash through the hospital yard.

EIGHT DIE IN PLANE CRASH

Cause of Accident to Air Liner Near St. Louis Is Not Known

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 6 (P)—In its battered instruments and retracted landing gear, investigators sought today the cause of the crash which last night killed all eight persons aboard Chicago & Southern's airliner, the City of Memphis.

Why Pilot Carl Zier turned and started back for Lambert-St. Louis Municipal Airport, within a few minutes after he had taken off for Chicago, was a mystery. The investigators hoped to dispel.

Declining to speculate, Bureau of Air Commerce inspectors studied the wreckage and considered the stories of several eye-witnesses. From Pilot James Bennett, who brought the plane into St. Louis from New Orleans, they learned it was in perfect mechanical order when he landed.

NAMES OF VICTIMS
Carried to their deaths in the crash were:

W. S. Bartlett, Chicago; C. B. Wright, eighteen, Hinsdale, Ill.; D. R. McDavis, fifty-five, Chicago; A. R. Holt, Boston; Vernon C. Omie, Memphis; Carl Zier, Chicago, the pilot, and Russell Mossman, New Orleans, the co-pilot.

Ralph L. Sharp, Fairfield, O., a visitor at a farm near the scene of the crash, said he saw the plane bank steeply and turn back toward the airport, from which it had taken off a few minutes before, en route from New Orleans to Chicago.

HEARD PLANE CRASH
He heard the plane crash a moment later after it went over a knoll and was obscured from his view.

George Bekmann, on whose farm the ship fell, said he heard the plane and saw it as it crashed. He said he saw the plane crash and saw the bodies of the victims.

Searchers found the bodies of the pilot and co-pilot, their arms locked about each other, about fifty feet from the wreckage of the crashed plane. Bodies of the passengers, many of them badly mangled, were scattered about the twisted main fuselage.

For some months, unknown to the thousands passing along the Thames Embankment, workmen have been busy behind a wooden screen under the Water Gate Arch, erecting a memorial to the late King George V. RIOTING BREAKS OUT ON ISLAND

Portugal Sends Two Warships to Halt Disturbances at Madeira

LISBON, Aug. 6 (P)—Delayed by Censorship, rioting broke out in the Portuguese-owned Madeira Islands tonight and armed police killed and wounded several persons.

Two warships carrying aircraft and a machine-gun and an infantry corps were to leave Portugal immediately for Funchal, capital of the islands, about 500 miles southwest of Lisbon.

A Government statement, issued after a special cabinet meeting, said these forces would re-establish order and arrest leaders of the outbreak.
The rioting, the Government stated, was provoked by a mob protest against an increase in the price of milk and butter as the result of the Government's recent law protecting dairy farmers.

MAY BUILD NAVAL BASE

Wage and Hours Legislation To Aid New Zealand, States Commissioner

A strongly fortified naval base may be built at some point on the New Zealand coastline, according to W. J. Jordan, M.P., newly appointed High Commissioner to England.

Accompanied by his wife and daughter, Mr. Jordan was here aboard R.M.S. Niagara yesterday en route to London to take up his quarters in New Zealand House. For fourteen years he represented Otago constituency in the New Zealand Government, and succeeds Sir James Parr as High Commissioner. Also with the commissioner was C. A. Beeson, permanent executive head of the New Zealand Prime Minister's Department.

Amplifying his statement, Mr. Jordan said present negotiations between New Zealand and England would result in an announcement of a definite naval policy in the near future. He believed contemplated defences would include an adequate force of powerful aircraft carriers.

PROGRESSING
Hon. W. D. Euler Expects to Conclude Commercial Pact With Germany

BERLIN, Aug. 6 (P)—Hon. W. D. Euler, Canadian Minister of Trade and Commerce, said today trade negotiations between Canada and Germany were progressing so well he expected to be able to leave Berlin by the end of the week.

A German official said the negotiations were conducted in a very friendly spirit.
It was understood the plan which is being worked out will include Canada to sell raw materials, wheat and other foodstuffs in exchange for machinery and manufactured articles from Germany.

Mr. Euler, who has been in the Reich for some days, plans to go to Switzerland and Holland from here. He will return to England later, and will sail for Canada about the Empress.

"I talked to Reichsfuehrer Hitler for more than half an hour," he said, describing his interview yesterday.

Hitler allowed me to ask him numerous questions about the international situation. He answered for me very carefully and with reasoned argument. He expressed an earnest desire for peace and described his fear of Bolshevism.

"He also spoke of the possibility of developing trade with Canada and Germany's difficulties in regard to raw materials—having no colonies of her own."

DIARY REVEALS TALE OF DEATH

Trapper Dies of Starvation After Recording Account Of Privation

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Alta., Aug. 6 (P)—A well-thumbed diary told the story tonight of the death by starvation of sixty-year-old Olaf Olson, and a cross by the banks of the Baptiste River marked his final resting place.

The emaciated body of the backwoods trapper was found on the floor of his lonely cabin at the forks of the Baptiste and Saskatchewan Rivers, sixty miles northwest of this settlement which is one hundred miles from Calgary.

RECORD OF PRIVATION
Olson had starved to death. Until July 15 he had daily recorded his privation. The diary was found beside his body when Constable J. H. Leyland, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, forced his way through the locked door of the cabin. July 25 was marked: "Feeling sick and remitted in bed all day." July 15: "Getting weaker." July 16: "Very weak, eyes get dull." Each day of the "starvation" was marked off until July 25 when it was presumed he died.

Olson baked his last "batch" of bread May 28, according to his diary. When Constable Leyland broke into the cabin, only one raw potato was to be found in the basement.

The Norwegian trapper had lived in the desolate Baptiste country since 1929. A fellow trapper passing the cabin last week-end saw the body lying on the floor and brought word here.

The field of twelve included all the world's ranking middle-distance runners, yet Canada's Dr. Phil Ed-

(Reuters' News Agency reported, however, that rebels still hold Cadiz).

Landing of 4,000 additional Moroccan troops on the Spanish mainland, after a five-hour battle in the Strait of Gibraltar, was the chief rebel achievement. It brought to 8,000 the African forces now available to the Southern Fascists.

PROBLEM FOR BOTH
Both sides faced the problem of finding munitions available to them with announcement eight European nations had agreed in principle to supply neither Fascists nor Loyalists with arms.

Berlin dispatches reported four German citizens had been executed at Barcelona, although they carried necessary identification papers. Germany protested to the Barcelona Government.

French airdrops from Morocco asserted German warships were stationed off Cadiz.

Increasing use of aerial warfare was ordered by the Loyalist Liberals—bombardment "without mercy." Thirty airplanes were dispatched.

LENGTHY FIGHT IS PREDICTED

Bitter Battle Expected for Supremacy in United States Labor Unions

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (P)—Fear of a prolonged civil war in labor ranks over the conditional order of the American Federation of Labor Executive Council, suspending ten member unions was evidenced today by a dispute between rival leaders over the immediate effect of the action.

While war talk was so fed, William Green, president of the Federation, took issue with a committee for industrial organization estimated that a suspension of the unions would split "a substantial majority" of central labor bodies. About 1,000 of these central bodies—each representing all the local unions in a community—are scattered throughout the country. Regarded by labor men as extremely important, they handle all local issues.

EXPLAINS SUSPENSION
After the Federation's executive council ordered the suspension of the ten committees for industrial organization unions unless they withdrew from the committee within thirty days Green explained to reporters that suspension would be put out of all state federations and central bodies.

John Brophy, director of the committee for industrial organization and John L. Lewis' first lieutenant in the committee's drive to bring all workers in each big industry into one union, told reporters this would split "a substantial majority" of the central bodies.

LOVELOCK SMASHES World's Record in 1,500 Metre Event

New Zealand's Great Distance Runner Clips Full Second Off Metric Mile Mark—Cunningham Second—Towns Wins Hurdles

By ELMER DULMAGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, Aug. 6 (P)—Jack Lovelock, New Zealand's "human hare," scored a record-smashing triumph in the 1,500-metre classic today to take over the Olympic spotlight that had focussed steadily on Jesse Owens.

Running with an effortless stride that simply devoured ground, the blond Briton covered the metric mile in the amazing time of 3:47.8 seconds, eclipsing the previous standard by a full second and leading home the redoubtable Glenn Cunningham, of the United States, by five metres.

The field of twelve included all the world's ranking middle-distance runners, yet Canada's Dr. Phil Edwards found the kick in his twenty-eight-year-old legs to finish a creditable fifth.

Edward's time of 3:50.4, like that of the four stars who preceded him over the line to the deafening shouts of an overflow crowd of 106,000, cracked the Olympic record.

Long Beersell, of Italy, who set the mark of 3:51.2 in winning the event in the 1932 games, was third, and runners, yet Canada's Dr. Phil Ed-

Chivalrous Boy Scout Tramps Miles to Seek Physician for Woman

George E. Harris, of 2226 Windsor Road, Victoria, Hero in Up-Island Incident—Delays Breakfast Hours to Get Medical Help

An incident has just been brought to light which indicates that the chivalrous spirit is still alive in the youth of the country, and also bears witness to the fact that the training which the boys receive in the Boy Scout ranks makes for manliness and unselfishness.

The hero of the incident is George E. Harris, who resides with his parents at 2226 Windsor Road in the city. Spending his holidays in the vicinity of Courtenay and the Forbidden Plateau, the opportunity arose a few days ago for the youth to put into practice the principles of service which are associated with membership in the Boy Scouts.

A woman in Courtenay was taken dangerously ill while the doctor was at the Forbidden Plateau, fourteen miles away, enjoying a short recreation.

MADE ARDUOUS TRIP
When the matter came to the attention of George Harris, there was a quick decision on his part to secure the necessary aid. He started out on a seven-mile tramp over a feeling would favor the idea of joining hands with them to save the Spanish people from utter destruction.

ALLEGED ATROCITIES

The Daily Mail quotes the statements of German refugees from Barcelona that nuns were beheaded and their heads affixed to the bonnets of motorcars of Reds and that Communists raided a convent and forced the nuns to walk stripped of all their clothing before a mob who hurled stones at them. The Mail continues, "can the British Government act with folded hands while such atrocious scenes are enacted within a day's steaming of our shores?"

"Have ministers not remembered the fact that the Roman Catholic community counts millions of adherents in Great Britain, Canada, Australia and elsewhere in the Empire? If Blum and his ministers about the Communist regime in Spain the last traces of sympathy in this country may well turn to hostility."

EARTHQUAKE OF IDEAS

The Daily Express says: "Europe in 1936 is shaking under an earthquake of ideas in conflict as it shook in the year of terror 1848. Then France, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Italy and Poland broke into revolt."

"But in those days it was the birth pangs of democracy that drenched the Continent with blood. These days it is the death pangs. Britain, who developed her democracy long before the rest of Europe and will retain it long after the rest of Europe, kept out of other people's troubles in 1848 and should keep out now."

REQUEST CLARIFICATION

ROME, Aug. 6 (AP)—Italy left genuine non-intervention in the Spanish civil war an open question tonight by accepting France's neutrality proposal in principle with a request for its clarification.

Particularly pointed was an official suggestion that "moral solidarity" with the belligerents constituted "a dangerous form of intervention," already in effect.

PREPARING DECLARATION

PARIS, Aug. 6 (CP-Havas)—Wording of the neutrality declaration under which the seven powers already subscribing "in principle" will be asked to support France's proposal for non-intervention in the Spanish civil war was in preparation tonight by the Government.

The "in principle" endorsements received to date have stressed that the projected declaration must be all-inclusive, and several countries have particularly emphasized the importance of Portugal's participation.

Shirley Temple To Again Fish Off Brentwood

Shirley Temple goes fishing again today.

With high hopes of repeating her feat of catching an eleven-pound salmon and assisting in landing four other large fish, last Wednesday, the brilliant young actress plans to leave for Brentwood Bay this morning, accompanied by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Temple, and W. M. Bishop, her personal representative.

R. P. Butchart's gardens delighted Shirley yesterday, and she has asked her parents to take her to see them again before they leave at the end of the week.

On a shopping tour of the city yesterday, the child was the object of thousands of admiring eyes, while other admirers, from early until late, searched through the Empress Hotel and gardens for her.

MAINLAND CONTRACTS

On the Mainland, contracts were distributed as follows: Work in the Kamloops-Kelowna section, W. C. Arnett, $35,118; in the Kamloops-Cache Creek and Spence Bridge-Merritt sections, Wawson, Wade & Company, Ltd., $70,428; between Hope and American Creek, R. E. The contracts call for use of resident chief labor to the extent of half of the crews, where possible, in work to be financed jointly by Dominion and provincial funds. Approval for the eight contracts was received by the province from Ottawa this week, permitting the work to go ahead.

Additional tenders will be opened on Monday for seven other road projects.

FUGITIVE FOUND SHOT BY OWN GUN

ELK POINT, Alta., Aug. 6 (AP)—The search for an alleged killer ended today with the finding of the body of Jimmy Chiskum near here. He died, police said, by his own hand.

The body of the twenty-five-year-old half-breed was found in dense brush one mile west of this North Alberta settlement, 146 miles northwest of Edmonton. Death was caused by a bullet from a rifle.

REORGANIZES CABINET

Premier Juan Casanova, of the Autonomous Catalan region, reorganized the Cabinet which he formed July 31. He eliminated the extreme Socialists from the Government, retaining only Republicans, but promised, nevertheless, to follow an extremist policy.

The Government claimed to have obtained secret information that serious dispute had split the rebel camp in the north, and announced capture of Baena, strategic point in Cordoba Province.

PORTENTOUS MESSAGE

LISBON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Portuguese radio stations said tonight they had intercepted a message from a South American ambassador to Spain, asserting serious events were expected "at any moment" in Madrid.

The message from the envoy to his Government was said to have declared the Spanish regime's authority was merely nominal. Actual power, the ambassador was reported to have said, was in the hands of militia chiefs, who had placed vigilance cordons to prevent anyone entering or leaving the military zone, keeping the populace in ignorance of happenings.

Gas Well Afire In Ontario Field

TILLSONBURG, Ont., Aug. 6 (AP)—Fed by the flow from a 2,000,000-cubic-foot gas well, a spectacular fire raged unchecked in the new Bronville gas fields of Oxford County tonight while scores of workmen strove to prevent the flames from spreading to the surrounding brush.

A high wind fanned the blaze and fears were felt the flames might spread to other wells in the field. The fire is said to have started when sparks from a passing train set the grass afire.

Voracious Dogs' Appetites Costly

PORTLAND, Aug. 6 (AP)—Two dogs with goat-like appetites cost their owners, Mr. and Mrs. David C. Bryant, $10 today.

The district court ordered them to pay that sum to Mr. and Mrs. Walter O. Neidhard on the latter's testimony that "those dogs ate the baby's diapers, our blankets, our stockings, our sheets and our rug—and an entire box of groceries on our back porch."

MINISTER TO LEAVE TODAY

Hon. J. E. Michaud Raises Hopes of Sports Fishermen For Unified Control

The Hon. J. E. Michaud, Federal Minister of Fisheries, and his party, plan to leave Victoria today aboard the hydrographic survey vessel William J. Stewart, bound for Canadian fisheries in the Sound and the Fraser River.

The minister met delegations from the affiliated Fish and Game Associations and the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, yesterday.

Headed by Major Roger Monteith, vice-president of the organization, the fishing delegation explained the importance of sports fishing to Vancouver Island and the Province, and advocated unified control for it. The Chamber of Commerce body comprising Harold Husband, president, Duncan McBride, vice-president, W. T. Strath, James Parfitt, George McGregor, G. H. Stevens, Elbert Wilson and George J. Warren, briefly touched on the proposed cancellation of the Sooke salmon traps; high efficiency of local departmental officials; co-operation of Major J. A. Moir, chief inspector of fisheries, and John F. Tait, supervisor of fisheries at Nanaimo.

Commenting on the interview, Major Monteith stated last night: "The minister seemed fully in accord with the proposal of unified control, and saw the advantages to be gained. It is now only a matter of working out the plan for placing the responsibility."

"We were quite pleased with the meeting, and came away very hopeful that Mr. Michaud would do something."

SEES GAINS IN LUMBER TRADE

B.C. Timber Commissioner Predicts 20 Per Cent British Increase

MONTREAL, Aug. 6 (AP)—It is expected British Columbia lumber mills will export about 550,000,000 feet of lumber to the British market this year, compared with 452,000,000 feet last year, R. Douglas Roe, British Columbia timber commissioner to Great Britain, said today on his way to England.

Canadian mills should pay more attention to trying to satisfy the British taste, Mr. Roe said. Lumber might be of the best quality, but might be beaten on the market by lumber from Baltic countries not of the same quality, but manufactured better, he said. Canadian mills turned out a maximum length of sixteen feet, but Baltic exporters filled orders for lumber up to twenty-six feet.

As a producer of soft woods Canada was benefitting by construction work involved in municipal building and slum clearance in England, said Mr. Roe.

BATTLE OVER HUGE ESTATE

Dispute Develops in Division Of $80,000,000 Left by Col. E. H. R. Green

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—Complications developed today in what appeared to be a two-sided conflict for the $80,000,000 estate left by the late Colonel Edward H. R. Green, financier, who died at Lake Placid, N.Y., June 8.

A search of Probate Court records at Bellerose Falls, N.Y., showed the late Hetty Green, Wall Street wizard and mother of Colonel Green, stipulated in passing her husband's estate along to two children that their respective spouses should have no share in it.

Colonel Green's widow was appointed temporary administrator of his estate last month by a Kaufman, Texas, court on the theory that he died without leaving a will. Three days later, however, the colonel's sister, Mrs. Matthew Astor Wilks, filed a will executed in 1908 at Port Henry, N.Y., in which she was named sole beneficiary and executor.

The two sisters-in-law remained silent on their conflicting actions pending a hearing Monday on Mrs. Green's Texas appointment.

Handsome Donation Given to Hospital X-Ray Department

"Louisa Todd Memorial Department of Radiology," With Fine, Up-to-Date Equipment, Formally Dedicated by Rev. Canon Chadwick

A SPLENDIDLY equipped new department was added to the Jubilee Hospital yesterday afternoon with the formal opening of the "Louisa Todd Memorial Department of Radiology."

Dedicated by Rev. Canon Chadwick "to the glory of God, to the service of humanity, and in loving memory of Louisa Todd," the department and its equipment will play an important part in the institution, and add greatly to its efficiency, the outstanding features of the equipment being its silence in operation; the fact that it is shock-proof both for operator and patient, thus eliminating all high tension electrical hazards; that in the diagnostic unit the power and speed are sufficient to allow films to be taken without movement, even the movement due to heart pulsations being eliminated, this allowing for greater accuracy of diagnosis. The ceremony was brief but impressive. Others taking part were Hugh Allan, president of the board of directors, who accepted the generous gift for the board, and in turn handed it over for operation to Dr. T. W. Walker, superintendent, and Dr. H. H. Murphy, radiologist. Tea was then served by Miss Curry, assistant director of nursing; the technical staff of the radiological and physio-therapeutic departments, and members of the supervising nursing staff.

KEEPING UP TO DATE
After the close of the war, the board of directors of the Jubilee Hospital, recognizing the place that radiology must fill in the modern hospital, installed an excellent diagnostic and therapeutic department, complete with the best apparatus then available. There was no better radiological department in any Canadian hospital than was established here at that time. It quickly became a very busy section of the hospital and soon justified its existence in the aid it gave in diagnosis and treatment.

Development in the field of X-ray equipment has been progressive, however, and while the original equipment was modernized from time to time as far as it was possible to do so, the advances in design and capacity during the last three years have been so spectacular that it was realized in the Autumn of 1935 that complete renewal was necessary. A donation for this purpose had been made and the department was enlarged to accommodate the new equipment. This part of the Jubilee Hospital is now named "The Louisa Todd Memorial Department of Radiology" in memory of the late Mrs. C. P. Todd, a life-long friend and supporter of the Jubilee Hospital in all its charitable work, who made this department possible.

The stretcher for handling severely injured cases is another interesting unit. Here, certain radiographic appliances have been incorporated, so that the patient can have the necessary examination done without being moved from the stretcher.

In the therapeutic unit, the power has been increased so as to bring the treatment ray much closer to the patient, and the most accurate system of measuring dosage has been installed—an Australian device known as the Mreapton. There is also a two-ton communication system, which enables the patient at any time during treatment to speak to the operator.

This installation is now one of the most complete on the continent and will be a great benefit to patients and doctor alike.

Provincial Railway Better Position by $34,441 in Six-Month Period

Substantial improvement in the net profits of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway was reported yesterday by Hon. John Hart, a director of the provincially-owned road, after a meeting of the board. A net loss of $21,960 on operating account for the first six months last year was turned into a net profit of $12,481 between January and June, inclusively, this year.

The betterment in the railroad's position for the six months ending June 30 last was $34,441. Meanwhile, tracks and equipment have been kept in condition, and permanent improvements added as opportunity offered.

INCREASED TRAVEL

The Pacific Great Eastern is enjoying greater use in its operating divisions, including both passenger and freight traffic. Influx of tourists has made itself felt under the influence of the Nuntat pac of Iron Mountain and the shear zone was followed for a long distance. Two thousand feet lower elevation on that side of the mountain further outcroppings of quartz of similar appearance to the veins of the shear were located.

"There is every reason to believe," he said, "from these indications that the ore bodies will go to great depths while belief that they continue more or less in conformity with the trend of the shear zone appears to be justified."

The Havilah Company has staked additional ground to enlarge the properties already held.

Meanwhile, Johnny Loring, of Windsor, Ont., and Bill Fritz, little Toronto powerhouse, raced through two 400-metre trials into yesterday's semi-finals, where the opposition will be formidable.

Loring, who surprised by taking the runner-up medal in the 400-metre hurdles yesterday, earned his berth in the sister event on the flat by placing third to America's Archie Williams and Juan Anderson, of Argentina. Winning in forty-eight seconds, Williams led the South American by six metres and the young University of Western Ontario student by four metres.

Considering that the 125-pound Fritz was third in a quarter-final won by Herr Blazevak in the unimpressive time of 48.2, his chances in Friday's decisive trials do not look bright. Jimmy Luvale, of the

The following resolution was approved to go before the convention: Resolved that the Public Schools Act be amended to make definite provision for power to school boards to make appointments on probation; (1) For one year for teachers with permanent teaching certificates (2) For two years for teachers who have not yet secured permanent certification or until such time as they obtain such certificates, subject always to the provisions of Clause 1 hereof.

This resolution has been approved in principle by the Island Teachers' Association and will be submitted for approval to them in its present form.

The chairman was asked to frame a resolution to go to the Island and British Columbia Associations asking the Department of Education to make use of radio and educational films for education purposes.

On request of the school management committee, the board gave its approval to uniforms for junior high school, similar to those in use in the high school.

Truistone Chairman reported having submitted preliminary plans for addition to the high school building to the Education Department's architect and the fire marshal for approval. This has been granted, and Douglas James will be asked to prepare plans.

Assay Return From Havilah Vein Shows 2.61 Ounces Gold

Assay returns received last night on channel samples taken across a three-foot vein of blue sulphide quartz on the shear zone of the Havilah Gold Mines, Ltd., near Alberni, sent $235. It was announced by James A. Burchett, president of the company. Company officials were also delighted with a surface return of $11.90 obtained across two feet of the Gillespie vein, the lode which was located last month in the greenstone, and which has been stripped and trenced for 1,000 feet.

Mr. Burchett and Eric McCallum, director of the company, spent several days on the property this week and are enthusiastic over the development work which has revealed that the vein system in the shear zone is more extensive than formerly indicated.

PARALLING SYSTEM
Having stripped and trenced across the Gillespie vein, outside of the shear for approximately 1,000 feet, Superintendent Walter Harris started opening up the showings on the zone between the black diorite and the greenstone. Seven different veins had already been indicated in the zone. Four of these are described as being paralleling, giving seven feet of ore between porphyry dykes across a distance of twelve feet. Level stations were opened on this vein system. At the number two level which was opened the channel samples were taken and shipped to Vancouver for assay, giving a value of 2.61 ounces of gold across three feet of what has been named the "Alberni Vein."

The paralleling veins have been disclosed by trenching and stripping for approximately 300 feet, while at a much lower level, some 1,500 feet down the slope of the shear what was at first believed to be a separate vein system has been identified as a continuation of the paralleling ledges, Mr. Burchett stated.

LONG DISTANCE
In addition to this highly gratifying disclosure, the president said, exploration was made over the divide on the Nuntat pac of Iron Mountain and the shear zone was followed for a long distance. Two thousand feet lower elevation on that side of the mountain further outcroppings of quartz of similar appearance to the veins of the shear were located.

"There is every reason to believe," he said, "from these indications that the ore bodies will go to great depths while belief that they continue more or less in conformity with the trend of the shear zone appears to be justified."

strong American forces, won his trial in 47.6, while William Roberts, of England, took another heat in 47.7.

LIMON ELIMINATED
Marshall "Mush" Limon, of Vancouver, got through the preliminaries with a second place, but ran fifth and out behind Luvale in the afternoon.

As Lovelock won the coveted metric mile, to score the fifth British Empire victory in the eleventh renewal of the event, the United States, Japan and Germany split the other men's finals of the day, while Treblunda Valla was taking the women's hurdle event for Italy.

The nimble women provided the closest finish of the games, the leading quartette hitting the tape so closely bunched the judges had to call for a photograph before separating them. Amy Steur, of Germany, was named runner-up, while Claudia Testoni, Italy, was placed behind Miss Taylor.

Nineteen-year-old Betty Ledy over the last hurdle, but weakened on the stretch. The blanketed four were caught in 11.7, equaling the Olympic record, but one-tenth of a second off Signorina Valla's time in a semi-final.

Forrest Towns captured the 110-metre hurdles for the United States. His time of 14.2 equalled the world standard he shaved by one-tenth of a second yesterday in a heat. Don Finlay, of England, closed with a rush to take second place over Fritz Pollard, of the United States.

From the German standpoint, Bernhard Stock was the real hero of the day. The burly Teuton captured the javelin title with a throw of 71.84 metres (235 feet 8.32 inches). As the award was announced, giving Germany her third triumph in the field events, the great stadium rocked with cheers and "heils" until it seemed the concrete structure would crack. The booming Reichsfuhrer Hitler joined in the demonstration.

Phinlay's defending title, Matti Järvinen, who recently wreathed his back, could do no better than 226 feet 11.11-16 inches.

TWO JAPANESE LEAD
Two tiny Japs who moved as though they had springs in their knees finished one-two in the hop, step and jump. Naoki Tajima won with a world-record performance of sixteen metres (52 feet 5.15-16 inches). Masao Harada was next with 15.66 metres.

Jack McKeefe, of Australia, the listed world record-holder at 51 feet 9.3-8 inches, took third 15.50 metres (50 feet 10.1-4 inches).

Sammy Richardson, Toronto negro, made 47 feet in the first stage, but sprung only one legitimate jump out of the three in the next and failed to reach the finals.

Lovelock, as confident of himself as any salesman, took the day's top-spot event with a smile on his lean face and a backward look at his pursuers. The highly-rated Cunningham ran the greatest race of his life and was four-tenths of a second under Bill Bonithron's listed world mark, yet he was five metres back of the New Zealander. Becali was another two metres to the rear.

The little Lovelock sparked his victory with what was probably the most powerful finishing sprint in mile foot-racing history. When he opened the throttle 300 metres from home, he made the others look as though they were out for a stroll. The dusky Edwards was never a contender for first place—but neither was anyone else once the studious Jack "turned it on."

He was ninth at the end of the first lap and eighth when the pack completed the second, with half the route over. He made his move on the last lap and reached the fourth spot, but the sprinting San Romani nipped him in the stretch.

It was Edwards' farewell Olympic appearance. He carried the Maple Leaf crest into the point column Tuesday by finishing third in the 800-metre championship. He was third in that event in the 1932 games and fourth in 1928.

The final track appearance of the stout-hearted negro is scheduled for the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto in September.

TANGLED POLITICAL SITUATION

The Bracken Government of Manitoba is canvassing ways and means of remaining in power, even by the expedient of a Coalition Government. It is quite another matter whether coalition of any character would meet with the wishes of the people of Manitoba. The popular vote was overwhelmingly against the Liberal-Progressives, and while they have the largest representation in the new Legislature they cannot carry on the Government without aid extraneous to their own party. The Winnipeg Tribune describes the Government as "defeated and discredited" and says that whatever arrangement it might make for outside support it would be a Government in office but not in power.

Probably it will be found that only another election will solve Manitoba's political problem. The Province at this time needs a strong Government because of agricultural problems. The farmers in the drought areas have to be assisted, and there is the problem in those drought areas, too, of the schools and municipalities. It is felt that a compromise Government, with conditions as they are, would have no driving power and could do little to deal with the financial situation. The main argument against the Government of Mr. Bracken holding power without a definite mandate from the people is found in the fact that the aggregate vote was so overwhelmingly against it. The political situation is so tangled that it could only be cleared up finally by another appeal to the people.

NAVAL PROVISION

Great Britain's total naval expenditure for the fiscal year 1936-1937 will be $406,445,000. The following ships will be added to the 1936 programme: Two cruisers of 5,000 tons, making a total of seven cruisers for 1936; one super-dreadnought and eight destroyers of the 1,350-ton type, making a total of eighteen destroyers for the year; one aircraft carrier, making two for the year; four aircraft submarines, bringing the year's total to eight. Sir Samuel Hoare, the First Lord of the Admiralty, explained the reasons for the building up of Great Britain's Navy in view of world preoccupations as follows:

"Let us remember the fundamental fact that while we wish to see all possible progress made in the air and upon the land, it is upon the sea that this country and this Empire depend for their existence. If our sea communications are cut, we have a supply of raw materials that will only last our industries for three months; but that supply would be more than we should need, for within six weeks we should be dead of starvation. This is the overwhelming reason that makes the reconstruction of our fleet so vitally important. We have delayed so long in its rebuilding that we are now faced with the problem of building what virtually amounts to a new fleet."

"That this new fleet should be built upon the right lines is a matter of life and death to us, and I can assure you that every possible effort will be made to avail ourselves of the teachings of practical experience, of the discoveries and inventions of science, and of the lessons of actual experiment to insure the best designs and the soundest methods of construction. As our life depends upon free passage through the Seven Seas of the world, the fleet must be strong enough to go anywhere and carry out its duties in any conditions. It is our determination to have such a fleet and to build it with the least possible delay."

JACK LOVELOCK'S VICTORY

Those who have followed the career of Jack Lovelock in athletics know him to be one of the greatest miler of all time. It is a fitting climax to his prowess that he should have won the 1,500 metres at the Olympic Games and won it in world record time. He has the faculty in athletic competition of rising to the height of a great occasion and his judgment on the running track in unexcelled at his distance. The 1,500 metres is one of the outstanding events on the Olympic programme. At the present Olympics it attracted an unusually strong field, including the holder of the world's record at the mile and a former winner of the Olympic event. It was a magnificent run race with the lead changing several times, but Lovelock, recognizing Cunningham, of the United States, as his most dangerous rival, kept ever at his heels until the back stretch of the final lap was reached. Then the New Zealander forged into the lead and responded to the American's challenge by increasing his advantage to win by more than five yards. It was a pity that Stanley Wooderson, of Great Britain, was not in the final, but a strained ankle led to his elimination in one of the heats. He has beaten Jack Lovelock often more than any other runner. Had he been fit and well the 1,500-metre race might well have turned out a duel between these two. As it was it proved one of the most notable victories of the Games, and a triumph for both headwork and footwork.

PENSIONS FOR THE BLIND

The prospects of pensions for the blind are brighter, according to the latest issue of The Canb News Sheet, of Toronto, the organ of the Canadian Institute for the Blind. A resolution endorsing the principle of pensions for this handicapped class was passed last March by the Federal House of Commons, but Mr. Dunning, the Minister of Finance, held out no hopes of any early provision being made for this purpose. It was stated on the floor of the House that if every blind person in Canada over the age of forty years were given the full old age pension of $40 a month, it would cost $627,360, of which the Dominion's share would be $470,520. There are 7,500 blind people in the Dominion of whom 2,614 are rated as being eligible for pension. A fresh element was introduced into the situation by the action of the Quebec Legislature, which made the Old Age Pension Act applicable to Quebec and inserted a clause which would make the provisions of the act applicable to blind persons over the age of forty years, in case such an amendment were made part of the Dominion Act. Following this action, the Dominion Government was approached by a delegation representing the interests of the sightless. Mr. Dunning is reported to have been "sympathetic but firm." He gave the delegation the assurance, however, that the Government would put pensions for the blind ahead of all other social legislation. "That is," to quote The Canb News Sheet, "he committed the Government to pensions for the blind if, at any time, the Government should consider any social legislation." The present Government seems reluctant to forward such social legislation, which it claims, falls under the purview of the Provincial Legislatures. The Finance Minister's reply to the delegation does not, therefore, ensure a "cheque in any blind person's pocket," but it is the most direct promise yet received, and it inspires greater hope among those to whose poverty it adds the distressing loss of vision.

Citizens in general are, we believe, in favor of relief being given to the sightless as early a date as possible.

A NEW AUTOGIRO

It has always been one of the aims of aeronautics to fashion a machine which will take off from any sort of land. A small autogiro, with two rotor blades and using a 50 h.p. engine, has been perfected and has been landing and taking off among the clumps of gorse on Hounslow Heath. It can lift vertically at the take-off to sufficient height to clear immediate obstacles. It is a machine developed by Messrs. G. and J. Weir, of Glasgow. It carries pilot for a flight of two and a half hours' duration and it can be purchased at a cost of $2,500. Its forward speed is 80 miles an hour. As developed it is a single-seater using a normal aeroplane fuselage with flat sides. The new mechanism is described as follows:

"The secret of the vertical take-off lies in the way in which the rotors are hinged and in the arrangement of those hinges, so that the blades, as they pass over those parts of the circle in which they develop no lift, may diminish their drag. It depends also on a device for keeping the blades at a non-lifting angle during the period of their acceleration before the take-off. The rotors, driven by gears from the engine, are accelerated on the ground to a rate of 350 revolutions a minute, and, at the moment of take-off, are decelerated from the engine and simultaneously allowed to take up the lifting angle by the simple process of pressing a button. The rate of rotation at flying speed is 210 revolutions a minute."

One of the economies effected by the Hepburn Government of Ontario was to cut the administrative costs of the Department of Lands and Forests by $140,000. This included reductions in the air service and fire ranging expenditures. This year forest fires in Ontario have been worse than for many years and timber to the value of $3,000,000 has been destroyed. Economy has not served in a year of drought. Mr. Hepburn, with the best intentions, could not foresee weather conditions, and Ontario is proportionately a heavy loser in one of its natural resources.

Sir Hugh Rennie Barclay, who recently died in England, left an estate valued at some $500,000, on which the death duty was $187,095 10s. In his will it was stated: "I make no charitable bequests, seeing that so large a proportion of my estate will have to be applied in the payment of death duties." This form of taxation does more than any other form to stifle private philanthropy. It is bad for human nature that this should be so, but there is no Government which is concerned with fostering what is best in human nature.

My friend, all speech and rumor is short-lived, foolish, untrue. Genuine work alone, that thou workest faithfully, that is eternal. Stand thou that, and let fame and the rest of it go grating.—Caryle.

Hammock for Vegetables

Whoever heard of growing anything in a hammock but lazy? But we know of a gentleman who produces vegetables by this odd procedure. Dr. A. G. Price, who makes a hobby of strange garden practices, rigs his vegetable hammocks up in small gunnysack hammocks slung between three poles lashed together and placed over the narrow patch. The vegetable is then carefully laid in the sling and allowed to grow and ripen with the full benefit of "Old Sol."—W.I.F.

Scribes Enjoy Show

When unobserved, some persons go through strange antics. On a hot afternoon this week a young man and his sister were sitting blithely along Broad Street until they arrived within range of the editorial windows. After a short conversation, the young man took a handkerchief out of his pocket and carefully wiped the girl's face, ears, neck and arms. He passed it over to her and she repeated the process on him. At that time there were two scribing scribes taking in the show through a window hoisted high.

In a local department store a clerkly shopper approached where there were a few chairs, only to find all of them occupied. She spotted a seat filled with parcels, next to a state bank, state banks are quite unnecessary and undesirable, and for handing out free loans like free lunches. . . . Of course, no one would be so foolish as to put their feet on the chairs, but if they are so careful to keep their feet off the chairs, they should be careful to keep their feet off the ground. . . . I think that Mr. Leacock is on the right track. What we need is more economists setting forth their views in a simple, direct, and unambiguous way. It is getting a little tired of having economists set forth their views in a simple, direct, and unambiguous way. . . . Economics is a funny subject anyway, if you don't know how to write about it. . . . C.C.F.—TAIL vs. HEAD

Mr. Leacock's following quotation is from the pamphlet, "Music Everywhere," printed in December, 1934, and on said pamphlet, "Diagnosis of the C.C.F.," p. 1. "As for the Canadian Commonwealth Federation, its real masters—not the soft-spoken respectable and reverend gentlemen nominally at its head, but the radical Communists in its red tail who, in an emergency, will inevitably rule its councils—tell us they are going to have 'peacefully' or by force and arms, as we like it, a Soviet Republic as they have it in Russia. 'Till be up to you very soon to turn that round, not with words—with votes.'"

Good many thousand "Tim Bucks" in the offing. Thanks be to our Canada is not yet as Russia, whose cities and countryside are running red with blood—the 7th day of December in the year of Our Lord, 1934."

It didn't call for a great prophet to foresee what has happened. Now that the red tail has cut its teeth on the public, the official head of our Provincial C.C.F., Mr. Woodsworth, the National C.C.F. leader, has some cause to fear the next time he speaks of Canadian Communism as "a compact, well-disciplined party that can" and "will" "dominate the C.C.F. This is the so-called United Front."

That the dictators and task-masters of the C.C.F. in British Columbia are resolved to have one great disciplinary "push," is clear from their recent meetings. Save for one powerful woman and one free man who could not get a hearing, every loyal C.C.F. present went to the lash and voted to purge their ranks of every member who is not in deed as in word, an effectual Communist.

Now the Canadian Communist party exists only to stir up bad feeling, strike, riots, and other illegal disturbances, until the point is reached, the occasion ripe, and then these Master-Iconoclasts will pass the word for their well-planned revolution by no peaceful propaganda or casting of ballots, but by armed revolt, the overthrow of all existing government and economic systems, prior to the setting up of Canada of a Soviet Republic as they have it in Russia. "We have that on the sworn evidence of Tim Buck and Arthur Evans, and in the publicly distributed book of the Canadian Communist Party."

Doubtless there are still remaining in the C.C.F. a few respectable if deluded citizens. As Hugh Walpole has it: "No man thinks himself a villain. Probably the prior who killed that Regina policeman a year ago was, in his own eyes, a man of justice, the youth who started to shoot up our local guardian of the peace thought himself a hero resulting oppressive interference of police authority, that lunatic shooting a gun at his Majesty just wanted to express his individuality and show that his feelings were hurt. Canaphas, as he tore his clothes, vindicated his humility and hatred of blasphemy, even Pilate in his jesting joy, was to his own philanthropic thought a real searcher after truth."

"What need we any further wince?"—What is truth?—Am I my brother's keeper? We too, may have to wait. The answer to those questions may be long in coming. But, when it comes, stand from under! For often comes as an overwhelming revelation.

HUMOROUS ECONOMICS

Sir,—I am glad to see that Mr. Stephen Leacock, in two thousand lines of humorous verse, mentioned in a recent editorial, agrees with several of the main contentions of Social Credit.

For instance, he agrees with Social Credit that "food consumption is faster than the numbers of the people. And, being a humorist, the fact that 13,500,000 English people, according to Sir John Orr, have less than six shillings, or $150 a week, to spend on food, must strike him as being 'very funny.'"

Of course, under Social Credit those 13,500,000 people would be able to buy plenty of food. But this, presumably, is not one of the subjects dealt with by Mr. Leacock in his two thousand lines of humorous verse; it is not one of the things he considers important enough for what is evidently his master work.

Social Credit agrees with Mr. Leacock that the bankers' job is that of helping to shift the world's production to consumption.

Social Credit also agrees with Mr. Leacock's statement that our bankers create money on the basis of the national credit or ability to produce and deliver goods as required. But as they are not doing this satisfactorily, Social Credit proposes that we should create money shall be restored once again to the State, so that the state can issue its own money in order that there will always be sufficient buying power to enable the hands of the people to enable them to purchase the total product of farms and industries operated at capacity.

Social Credit furthermore agrees with Mr. Leacock's condemnation of the state banks; state banks are quite unnecessary and undesirable, and for handing out free loans like free lunches. . . . Of course, no one would be so foolish as to put their feet on the chairs, but if they are so careful to keep their feet off the chairs, they should be careful to keep their feet off the ground. . . . I think that Mr. Leacock is on the right track. What we need is more economists setting forth their views in a simple, direct, and unambiguous way. It is getting a little tired of having economists set forth their views in a simple, direct, and unambiguous way. . . . THE ONE CHANCE

Most bridge players are cultured, well educated people. In fact, I would wager a pretty penny on a group of such players in a general intelligence test against another group representing any other hobby, indeed, any profession. In certain departments notably psychology and logic, I would expect my team to sweep the field, at the same time holding its own in the other divisions.

It cannot be denied, however, that some of the most pungently descriptive and brilliant terms are contributed by roughnecks! One of them, a friend of mine and a shrewd player, laying on his gashouse accent and phraseology a bit thickly for historical emphasis, says: "When three ain't but one place to get a trick, that's the place to look for it!" And he's perfectly right, as East found out after having played the following hand:

Fish Packers Work Day and Night to Cope With Big Run

NEW WESTMINSTER, Aug. 6 (P. C.)—Fish collection boats on the Fraser River are working twenty-four hours a day in an effort to pick up the large catches being made by sockeye salmon fishermen. Hundreds of boats are on the river, taking advantage of the best sockeye run seen here in twenty years. Many of the boats are averaging around 500 fish per day, while some have made catches of as many as 1,000 fish.

Two missionary families, Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Hunt and Doctor and Mrs. R. M. Hyatt, of Philadelphia and members of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions will also be aboard, bound to take up work in China and Japan.

The following has been received by the Empire Shipping Co., Ltd., agents for the French Line: From Jean L. Artur, acting resident general manager for the French Line for the United States and Canada: "Within the last day or two stories have appeared in the press to the effect that French Line officials in Paris declared that the Line would protest the claim of the Canadian White Star Line flagship."

The Winnipeg, which is in command of Capt. A. Fontaine, will sail from Vancouver on August 13 for Havre, Dunkirk, Antwerp, Bordeaux, and Rotterdam via San Francisco, Los Angeles Harbor, San Jose de Guzman, La Libertad, Corinto and Cristobal.

When the ship arrived here last Saturday, the crew informed the agents that loading would have to be done by members of either the International Longshoremen's Association or the Vancouver and District Waterfront Workers' Association.

Previously, loading of American ships here was done by crews containing 50 per cent of members of the Waterfront Workers' Association. Several hundred tons of cargo for Vancouver were on board the Hollywood when she arrived here Saturday. This cargo was not unloaded here but taken to Seattle, where it was landed. The crew then decided it was unfair freight and demanded it be put back on board. This was done, and the cargo is now on the vessel, awaiting discharge.

It was reported here tonight that the San Francisco headquarters of the Seamen's Union had instructed its members aboard the Hollywood to observe the original agreement with the Shipping Federation.

ALL READY FOR SATURDAY GALA

Arrangements Completed for Long Day of Sport at Shawinigan Lake

SHAWINIGAN LAKE, Aug. 6.—The committees in charge of arrangements for the gala at Shawinigan Lake next Saturday met in the S.L.A.A. Hall on Wednesday evening to complete all plans for what is hoped will be the biggest local event of the year.

A most gratifying financial report was read by the secretary, Mrs. J. Ed. Dea. The allotment of the many fine prizes for the lengthy programme was taken care of by the committee.

The elaborate programme will include track and field sports, gymnastics, parade, softball, dance, etc., and will start with the parade at 11:30. A handsome trophy, in the form of a perpetual cup, has been given by the Shawinigan Softball Club, to be competed for at every annual gala day held here.

DISMISSED BOXERS WERE NOT HOMESICK

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP).—Joe Church and Howell King, summarily dismissed from the United States boxing Olympic squad and sent home, arrived today and said they were never told the exact reasons for their dismissal.

"We weren't homesick at all," they said, "but mystified. We behaved ourselves over and over there, but were suddenly told to pack up and take the next boat home. The Olympic committee hasn't heard the last of this."

VANCOUVER MAN BEATEN BY THUGS

Victim Puts Five Attackers to Rout With Knife—One Killed

VANCOUVER, Aug. 6 (AP).—One man was held by police for investigation tonight, following the report of Chris Collias that he had been attacked by five thugs on a street corner early today.

Collias said that as he was borne to the ground he pulled a pocket knife and slashed the wrist of one of his assailants. The attackers then fled.

Following this clue, police found a man in the emergency ward of a hospital who was suffering a slashed wrist and was unable to give a satisfactory explanation of how he came by the injury.

He is being held pending further investigation by police.

GERMAN WINS AT OLYMPIAD

Gotthardt Handrick Takes Pentathlon Championship at Games

BERLIN, Aug. 6 (AP).—Gotthardt Handrick, lieutenant in the German Air Force, today won the modern pentathlon championship of the Olympic Games.

Handrick finished with the low total of 315 points, and Charles F. Leonard, of the United States, completed the five-event test in second place with 395 points.

Leonard, third in the aggregate standing after the first four events, caught and passed Sven Thofelt, of Sweden, in today's final test, a 4,000-metre cross-country run.

Leonard finished sixth in this event in 14:17.8, while Thofelt, finishing twenty-fourth in the run, dropped back into fourth place in the final standings. Abba, of Italy, clocked 14:11.2 in the run, took third place.

Handrick made by far the most consistent showing in all events. He was twelfth in the cross-country, placing fourth in the fencing and shooting and ninth in the swimming.

SECRET SERVICE AGENTS DEMOTED

Two High Officials Punished for Investigating Activities of G-Men Without Authority

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP).—The anger of Attorney-General Cummings at a secret service investigation of the pair in a letter to the chief of the secret service officials.

Secretary Morgenthau, in whose Treasury Department the secret service is a unit, announced punishment of the pair in a letter to the Justice Department chief. Cummings replied he had dealt with the matter in an "effective fashion."

Joseph E. Murphy, a veteran of thirty-five years' service, who commanded the White House guard from 1914 to 1919, was demoted from assistant chief of the secret service to chief of a bureau yet to be named.

Grady Boatwright, another former Presidential bodyguard, was demoted from chief of the St. Paul bureau to a field post.

The disciplinary action followed Treasury investigation of reports that some secret service agents had undertaken an inquiry to determine whether the slaying of John Dillinger, and Eddie Green, a Dillinger gangster, was necessary.

Both outlaws were shot down in gun battles with agents of the Bureau of Investigation, a division of Cummings's department, directed by J. Edgar Hoover.

Choir Boys Give Concert at Home Of Gen. Gwynne

SIDNEY, Aug. 6.—The Christ church Cathedral choir boys gave a delightful concert on Monday afternoon at "Ardmore Grange," the home of General and Mrs. R. J. Gwynne. HOUSEHOLD HINT SERVING tomato juice as an appetizer has become so popular that many housewives have overlooked its many delightful uses in cooking. It provides a delicious, flavor-giving ingredient in many dishes.

In fact when it comes to considering how to use tomato juice in cooking it is only necessary to allow the imagination to wander and experiment. Tomato juice may be added to gravies to lend an appetizing flavor or in meat loaves for a similar reason. It makes a splendid base of croquette sauces. Soups of all kinds may be improved with the addition of tomato flavor. In baking tomato juice may often be used advantageously in place of lemon juice. It improves the flavor of spice cake and many kinds of cookies.

In salads tomato juice makes another happy contribution to beautiful foods combining beautifully with again to enrich the flavor of the dish.

cern was made with England, Mr. Jordan felt there was every prospect of Canada's exports of automobiles, apples and newsprint increasing to New Zealand in the future.

Asked what he thought of Canada's duty on butter from New Zealand, Mr. Jordan considered reciprocal trade between sections of the British Empire should be inaugurated to a greater extent.

He told how the New Zealand Government had commenced purchasing the entire output of butter, cheese, pork and other dairy products in efforts to stabilize the industry and insure a fair living to all farmers. He said alleviation of farmers' mortgage burdens was also under consideration.

DECREASING RAPIDLY

Unemployment in New Zealand was decreasing rapidly, Mr. Jordan related. He believed the present programme of railway and road-building would take care of all jobs.

It was also planned to restore wage cuts retroactive to July 1, which would mean that the average wage equaled that paid in 1931 when conditions were prosperous. Mr. Jordan stated. All disagreements would be ironed out by an arbitration court consisting of a judge of the Supreme Court, an industrial representative and a delegate chosen by the trades unions. Their decisions would be final.

There were many interesting torchlight processions, march pasts, etc., and the visitors were shown all the interesting sights: Copenhagen, Hans Andersen's home, the Danish gymnasium, school at Svanborg, with 250 girls drilling. Mrs. Morkill, who was one of the principal Canadian delegates, stayed with one of the Danish commissioners.

While in Europe she also visited Stockholm, Leipzig, and many other places of interest. Miss Aline Stewart, Williams, another Victorian, attended the camp with a party of English Guilders.

M. Kuban, Grand Forks, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bertelson, Vernon, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Duppenhaler, of Tacoma.

Mrs. Harry Piper and Miss Phyllis Piper, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. Beech, have returned to their home in Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Bent and Mr. and Mrs. Martin, Victoria, were weekend visitors at the Lakeside Hotel.

CLAIMS DEMOCRATS ARE HARDEST HIT BY TOWNSEND POLICY

Democrats stand to lose more supporters to Dr. Townsend's party than the Republicans, said W. P. Winch, of Windsor, Vermont, at the Windermere Hotel last night. With Mrs. Winch, he spent the winter in California and learned considerable about the movement.

Mr. Winch made no election predictions but observed the campaign was the bitterest in many years, individuals giving vent to personal animosities.

CO-OPERATION IS NECESSARY

Dr. Richard Felton Addresses Rotary Club on Subject Of Better Health

Dr. Richard Felton, city health officer of Victoria, was the speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club yesterday when he dealt with the subject, "City Health and the Citizens' Relation Thereto." He explained that there were many who did not realize what were the duties of the city health officer in the discharge of his duties. For this reason he briefly touched upon the various phases of the work.

Having done this, Dr. Felton at some length touched upon some of the more important duties that fell upon the department. Some of this work which was for the maintenance of better health among the citizens never reached the stage where by-laws were enacted and enforced. As an instance of this, he cited the move for wrapping bread which had been adopted by a number of the bakeries without any compulsory enactment.

CO-OPERATION NEEDED

The personal co-operation of citizens he pointed out, was necessary in the securing in various other lines more complete sterilization of that which was to be consumed by the public. Any steps taken by the health department pointing in this direction should be supported by the citizens as a whole.

The public could assist in patronizing firms that adopted better methods of handling food and milk in up-to-date ways which were for the improvement of the sterilization and cleanliness. He admonished citizens to co-operate in all ways with the health departments of the city and the province in securing better conditions which made for health.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. George Hall, who spoke highly of the efficiency of Dr. Felton as an official.

Three Mariners Rescued Off Wash-Ingon Coast in Halibut Boat From Alaska

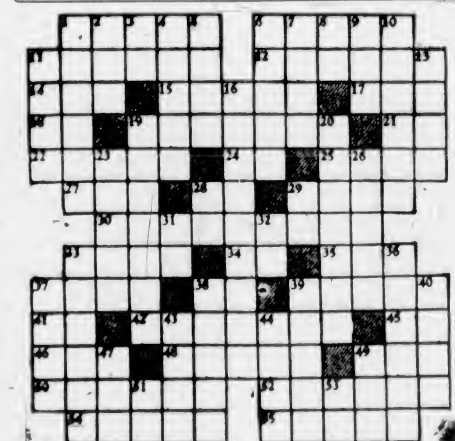

WESTPORT, Wash., Aug. 6 (AP)—Adrift since June 29, when he broke her crankshaft in Unimak Pass, Alaska, the halibut boat Baldy was rescued fifteen miles off shore by the coast guard life-saving crew late today. Captain Bertson Coope, of San Francisco, and his crew of two had six gallons of water and a week's rations left, they said.

H. J. Persson, commander of the Westport Life-Saving Station, who directed the rescue, said the three mariners were in good spirits and showed little ill effects from the mishap. He estimated they had drifted 2,000 miles since the breakdown.

MIDNIGHT AND PERCY JONES

by VINCENT STARRETT

CHAPTER XXVI
It was odd the way things worked out. Traditionally, a murderer always made a mistake—just one—which later proved his undoing. The oversight in the case of Rita Wingfield had been the photograph. Too late her murderer had remembered it and recognized its importance. A little thing—the name of a small city in a distant state, recorded in blind stamp on the corner of a woman's portrait. To the police it had meant nothing. Even to himself, reflected Riley Blackwood without approval, it had meant nothing until it had been stolen.

And the night club had been the centre of the conspiracy. It was not certain that Percy had been there. It had been, indeed, his last appearance, save for that fleeting glimpse of him at three o'clock—hurrying southward in a taxicab—when his words, strangely, had been words of self-accusation.

A puzzling circumstance. Percy Jones had known that he was going to be accused. If only that incident, too, had been part of the prepared play-acting of the evening, its significance would be more readily explainable.

Blackwood sat up suddenly. "Why shouldn't it have been?" he asked aloud.

From first to last, the fantastic still had been concocted to point a finger at the announcer. Why should not his last reported words be part and parcel of the same devilish ingenuity?

The meeting with Pentress had been adventurous, to be sure; but if Percy had been forced to utter the words he did—Pentress had said that Percy was alone in the cab, save for the taxi-driver. He had yelled at the lawyer first, to attract his attention, and then—when Pentress had walked over to the cab—had thrust his head out and delivered his curious message.

But if Percy Jones, after his first shout of recognition, had felt the muzzle of a revolver against his ribs, and then had been instructed what to say by someone crouching low in the shadows of the unlighted cab—

Yes, it was certainly possible. Pentress had thought that Percy was being facetious. Actually, the poor devil—in process of being abducted—was probably a bit hysterical. Pentress had simply misread the circumstances. Percy had had a secret companion in the cab.

It was a neat idea, and it accounted for an incident that otherwise was troublesome. But it did more than that, reflected Riley Blackwood, it offered yet another possible clue to the identity of the mysterious Hindu. He only—unless the taxi driver was the criminal—could have been the man inside the cab with Percy; and there was a chance that they had been leaving the club together.

The question raised was insistent: Who, conceivably, might have witnessed Percy's departure from the night club?

It was possible that the Hindu—so to call him—was already in the cab when it drew up. In that case,

Percy had been escorted to it quietly or by force. If quietly, his escort probably had been the dancer. If forcibly—

"A couple of gorillas?" But in either case there must be found some evidence of departure. If there had been a scene, so much the better—the testimony would be that much clearer.

The doorman would "worse than useless." He was employed to open doors and keep his mouth shut. All other shops in the vicinity had been tightly closed. Edgar Wallace would have provided a convenient beldame selling flowers; but Riley Blackwood dismissed the mythical old creature with a shrug. A wandering policeman? Fat chance! thought Blackwood—There was a newsstand on the corner; but no hope of a proprietor at 3 a.m.

It seemed a hopeless inquiry. The scene returned completely, and he saw again the line of lanterns in the street before the door. They had reminded him of the footlights in a theatre. A group of laborers had been at work between the car tracks; they had been there for some time.

Blackwood softly clapped his hands. He had found his witnesses to Percy's exit.

He hated to touch the telephone; it might ring at any minute with the tidings from Montana. So he crossed the passage to his aunt's apartment. Miss Blackwood was not at home.

A number of secretaries obstructed his approach, but at last he was talking to the superintendent of the City Railways Company.

"It's a curious business, Mr. Walker, involving witnesses to a possible abduction. The fact is, some of your laborers probably saw the whole episode without realizing what was happening. What I want is to get in touch with the foreman of the gang that was repairing tracks in Chicago Avenue, near the Boulevard, last Saturday night—more accurate, last Sunday morning."

He listened.

"Oh—thank you! Yes, I'll hold the wire."

It was true, but he was finally shunted to the man who knew about such things. He repeated his request.

"Thank you—yes! It's very kind of you. You don't? Oh—thank you! Yes, I'll hold the wire."

He waited.

"Hello? Yes, I'm still here. Yes, Chicago Avenue, not far from the Boulevard. What? Oh, that's impossible! I saw them there, myself. Yes, a little before four o'clock. There can't possibly be any mistake! What is it? I haven't any idea—fixing the tracks, I suppose."

He listened.

"I see. Yes, I understand. You're quite sure? Yes, yes, I understand! Well, I certainly thought so, but perhaps it was the vanguard of the Japanese invasion coming up through the soil. Ha ha! Yes, indeed. But pay no attention to me whatever. Yes—thank you! Good-bye."

He returned from the telephone slightly dazed. After a moment he returned to his own chambers and seated himself—a little shakily—on the couch. Still later—a bit unsteadily—he lighted a cigarette.

There had been no gang of laborers at work in Chicago Avenue near the Boulevard on Saturday night, or Sunday morning either. The tracks at that point were in excellent repair. At any rate, there had been no complaint about them. It had been suggested that Mr. Blackwood was mistaken.

"So—o—o!" said Mr. Blackwood in a low voice. "Percy?" He bounded to his feet and once more started for the telephone. Then he paused and retreated to his sofa.

"Easy, boy! Take it easy!" he cautioned himself. "You may put your foot in it, if you don't."

He was still thinking when the doorbell rang.

"He stood up quickly, but Jim, the Chinese boy, was hurrying from the rear, and in a minute he heard the voice of Zelda Lansing in the passage. With relief, he hastened to greet her.

"Zelda!" he said. "Why, this is splendid! So Dallas really let you go!"

She came forward smiling, with both hands extended.

"He didn't want to," said Zelda Lansing, "but in the end he had to. Mr. Pentress did his best and couldn't shake him. Fortunately, I have an uncle with a little influence. I've promised not to run away."

"It's good to see you," said Riley Blackwood. He was still considerably shaken.

To Be Continued.

Two tasks of monumental importance are just about completed by the British National Institute for the Blind in the issue of seventeen Old Testament books in the first Braille edition of the Bible in the Revised Version, and in the publication of sixteen Epistles, which will finish the first Braille edition of the Greek New Testament.

"I don't think so," muttered Blacky. "If I am as I'm alive."

He spread his black wings and sailed out over the cornfield straight toward the scarecrow, and as he flew he shrieked at the top of his voice.

"Caw, caw, caw! Caw, caw, caw! Caw, caw, caw!" he shouted that all his relatives might hear.

"There's nothing here to do us harm. There's nothing here to cause alarm. It is over. I'm tender, young and fine. Come on! Come on with me and dine!"

..... A WORLD FAMOUS DISTILLERY
Greetings A WORLD FAMOUS CITY

N.B. The accompanying illustrations show part of the Hiram Walker executive offices and distillery at Walkerville, Ontario.

On the occasion of VANCOUVER'S GOLDEN JUBILEE Hiram Walker & Sons send greetings to the City and to their friends on the Pacific Coast.

This season also commemorates several Walker anniversaries. On July 4th, 1816, Hiram Walker, the founder, was born. Forty-two years later, in 1858, he founded the world-famous distillery at Walkerville, Ontario, which bears his name, and which celebrates its 78th anniversary this year. And, on July 4th, 1934, the greatest monument to his memory was completed, when the nine million dollar Hiram Walker distillery at Peoria, Illinois, commenced operations.

It is true, as Emerson says, that a great institution is the lengthened shadow of one man. But it is also the composite shadow of many men, who carry on and perpetuate the heritage of one man's foresight and enterprise and thereby prove how well and truly the founder built.

FAMOUS STORY NOW ON SCREEN

"Trouble for Two" Movie Version of
"The Suicide Club," at Dominion Theatre

Based on "The Suicide Club" by Robert Louis Stevenson, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Trouble for Two" opens an engagement of three days, at the Dominion Theatre today, co-starring Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell.

The picture has been so cleverly produced from the Stevenson narrative that it distinctly thrilled an audience which was liberally composed of Stevenson's admirers.

Montgomery, in the role of the remembered gay young prince required by royal command to marry a princess for whom he had no love, is everything that Stevenson
pictured in his immortal writings.
Miss Russell, as the unwanted lady, demonstrates her talent and charm
by winning his affection.

ATLAS Veterans of the silent theatre days of Western drama, historical serials of the days of Daniel Boone, and such lusty screen fare, relieved past glories in the newest musical romance of the screen! Former players in "horse opera," and a director who in the early days directed them, repeated their strenuous work in a man-made wilderness at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, for Herbert's famous musical romance, with Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson
Eddy, now showing at the Atlas Theatre.

COLUMBIA The fame of "Little Men," Louise M. Alcott's matchless word-picture of old New England, of which Macdonald's charming screen version, now at the Columbia Theatre, brought Baron Walther von Schoener, of Germany, to the studio to watch it filmed. He is a noted collector of German editions of the Alcott novels. A few of the many stars in the cast are Ralph Morgan, Erin O'Brien Moore, Junior Durkin, Phyllis Fraser, Corn Blue Collins, and the talented group of
"little men."

PLAZA "Sanders of the River,"
the great Alexander production, now at the Plaza Theatre, is unusual for the fact that it has three great stars—
Paul Robeson, Leslie Banks and Nina Mae McKinney. Most of the production was filmed in Africa and thousands of natives were used in some of the most weird and novel scenes. The picture has been most favorably compared with "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," with a story that is even more impressive than that famous picture.

OAK BAY Since Warner Bros.
Theatre has been the extremely successful "G-Men," there has been a constant demand for further productions that disclose the inner workings of secret service departments, and "Secret Agent," showing today and tomorrow at the Oak Bay Theatre, has as its theme the unmasking of criminals and racketeers.

Famous Doctor Who Probes Into Lungs Now Master of Art

Dr. Chevalier Jackson Is Acknowledged as Leader
In the Use of Bronchoscope—Has Thousands of Cases—Wants No Publicity

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor.

PHILADELPHIA, August 6 (AP).—When three-year-old Kelvin Arthur Rogers traveled 9,000 miles from Australia to Philadelphia to have Dr. Chevalier Jackson remove a nail from his lung with aid of a bronchoscope, two readers wrote a Philadelphia paper: "Why isn't there more than one bronchoscope in the world to take pins out of children?"

The answer: There are thousands of bronchoscopes, straight, hollow metal tubes with a light at the tip for looking down gullets, windpipes and lungs. There are nearly 2,000 physicians trained personally by Dr. Jackson in use of the bronchoscope. And there's Chevalier Jackson.

STILL UNBEATABLE
Chevalier Jackson, M.D., age seventy-one, who goes to bed at nine, rises at 4:30 a.m.; who never drinks or smokes, who paints pictures and works with both hands; the old master who developed the bronchoscope technique thirty-one years ago; who said he spent twenty-two years learning how to remove an open safety pin from a child's throat, is still unbeatable.
That is why, with thousands of bronchoscopes—Spain and India have them along with the rest of the world—physicians keep sending swallowers of unusual objects to Chevalier Jackson's clinic at the Temple University Hospital here.

Jack-son wouldn't say he is the best—even though Temple University Hospital has built him a special clinic and the hospital records last year showed he was visited by 5,273 out-patients who usually stayed less than a day, plus 1,718 patients who stayed longer. He even writes the newspapers protests against mention of his cases. One of America's most famous and wealthiest men didn't get to Dr. Jackson's clinic because he asked a newspaperman to get him some information on it. The writer could not reveal his purpose. Dr. Jackson thought it must be publicity. He refused to see the newspaperman.

SPECTACULAR QUALITY
Dr. Jackson's work has the spectacular quality of near perfection in technique. A patient crossed the continent with an open safety pin in his throat. Two minutes after this patient went on the table the pin was closed and removed. What the assembled medical men did not see was Chevalier Jackson spending much of his time the previous two days planning this operation. Long, slim forceps thrust down the pin-low bronchoscope closed the pin.

In 1927, newspapers reported he had "saved 1,800 persons" in twenty-two years. He did not originate the bronchoscope. That is credited to Dr. Christian Killian, Freiburg, Germany, in 1855. But medical history records Chevalier Jackson as per-fecter of the technique. Its use has progressed far beyond removal of swallowed peas, nuts, toys, poker chips, safety razor blades, false teeth and plates, bullets, chicken bones, spray tips, staples, coins, jewels—all recorded in Dr. Jackson's clinic.

These inadvertent swallowers are

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

TREATMENT OF ANGINA PEC- TORIS—BREAST PANG

"The attack consists in the sudden onset of agonizing pain in the region of the heart or underneath the breast bone, with a vise-like gripping or squeezing feeling, and,
in severe cases, a sense of death.
The patient is pale, motionless, and,
often, bathed in cold perspiration."

This is the definition of what is known as angina pectoris, or "breast pang." It usually occurs suddenly after exertion, excitement or a hearty meal.

Now, the fact that it is near the stomach and occurs after excitement or a hearty meal might make one think that it is indigestion, for which it is sometimes mistaken.

In The Medical Press and Circular, London, Dr. C. B. Perry points out the three points or characteristics found in angina pectoris: (a) the squeezing, constricting, vise-like nature of the pain; (b) the location of the pain (heart or breast bone region); and (c) that it occurs during or following physical or mental activity.

Sometimes angina pectoris is due to certain ailments or condition of the body such as severe anemia, which, if they can be corrected, will prevent further attacks, but in the majority of cases the cause is unknown. All that is known is that physical exertion, mental strain, severe emotional excitement, and digestive disturbances bring on the attacks.

Dr. Perry states that the outlook for recovery or freedom from attacks is poor when the attacks become too frequent, and when the amount of effort necessary to bring on the pain is becoming less.
Another factor in preventing attacks and prolonging life is the degree to which the patient is willing to follow the advice to keep calm in spirit, take little exercise, avoid heavy meals and not eat when tired or excited. This is known as trying to preserve or save the amount of strength the heart possesses—that is, the reserve strength of the heart. This is the treatment between attacks—physical and mental calmness or rest.

The treatment during an attack is to give absolute rest, which is usually sufficient to end the attack.
Inhaling or breathing in amyl ni-trite brings the attack to an end in less time than by simply resting.
Anyone who has ever had an attack usually carries some amyl ni-trite in his pocket. A few drops in a handkerchief applied to the nose, breathing deeply, is usually all the treatment necessary.

A man never grows when he gets the lion's share.

Dizzy Dean Twirls Cards to Victory Over Chicago Cubs

Registers Eighteenth Win of Season and Puts St. Louis Three Full Games Ahead of Charlie Grimm's Team—Tigers Blank Indians

NATIONAL LEAGUE
CHICAGO, Aug. 6 (AP)—The gas house gang from St. Louis, with Dizzy Dean in the lead, nosed out the Cubs, 3-2, today on the strength of Rookie Johnny Mize's home run in the eleventh to take a three-game lead in the National League pennant chase.

Dean hooked up with Bill Lee in a close pitchers' duel for eight innings, and wound up against Charlie Root. Although touched for ten hits, the "great one" was lighter in the pinches than either of his two mound opponents in chalking up his eighteenth victory of the year and giving the gas house gang their third straight in the current series.

The Tigers fired a sixteen-hit barrage on Willis Hudlin and George Uhle, featured by George Gieslin's eighteen—home run and Marvin Owen's eighth, to give Wade his first victory since the Detroiters recalled him from the International League. Detroit did all its scoring in three big innings.

Peace Reaches Quarter-Finals

BERLIN, Aug. 6 (AP)—Douglas Peace, of Toronto, tonight reached the quarter-finals in the one-kilometre bicycle race to be held tomorrow. Peace qualified as the Olympic cycling programme began by defeating Howard Wing, of China, by inches in a consolation heat.

In a preliminary heat, Peace had been defeated by Arie Van Vliet, of Holland, by a wide margin.

In the four-kilometre pursuit race, the Canadian team, composed of Lionel Coleman, Hamilton; George Crompton, Toronto; Bob McLeod, Toronto; and George Turner, Ottawa, was defeated by Italy's team that covered the distance in 4.48.6 seconds to establish a new Olympic record.

Canada's time of 4.48.6 was not good enough to qualify for the next round.

MAT CARD IS SET TONIGHT

Local Wrestlers to Show on All-Star Programme at Athletic Park

Rugged Reg Hopkins, crafty local matman, and Al Garnot, another promising local product of the bone-bending game, will headline tonight's all-wrestling card to be presented at the Royal Athletic Park by the Victoria Athletic Club.

The boys are billed to go five six-minute rounds. Three other matches, with the first commencing at 8.30 o'clock, will round out the attractive programme.

Colorful George Lowe, sensational young, Chinese grappler, and "Bud" Kirchin, stocky built Victorian, will match holds in the semi-wind-up. Lowe is one of the most brilliant of the local squirmers, and should display plenty of action and good wrestling against the rugged Kirchin.

Bill Steen, curly-haired local youngster, will tackle Chester Rich, another Victoria exponent of the grunt and groan pastime.

Mohan Singh, Hindu grappler, will make his local debut in the special event, when he climbs over the ropes to meet the clever and elusive Bing Quon, Chinese wrestler.

Matchmaker Louis Callan will referee all bouts.

COAST LEAGUE
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6 (AP)—Los Angeles took the odd game of the three-game series from Sacramento here this afternoon, 6 to 4.

The Angels accumulated a six-run lead in the first seven innings, while Dutch Lieber held the Solons scoreless until the eighth. In that frame, doubles by Peters and Vezner, and an error by Mattick netted two runs.

Sacramento scored two more in the ninth.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT By Ripley

Four goose eggs were placed on the scoreboard as the sides retired without scoring. In the sixth inning all boys sent O'Connell around the bases to slice their opponents' lead to a pair of markers.

Along came the mythical lucky seventh. In this session Brunson's Boys pushed across the victory course, much to the delight of the crowd.

WINNING HIT
There was no further scoring until the last of the ninth. With two men down and Preston safe on the initial sack after beating out an infield hit, Rube Lamb, Silent Glows' first sacker, came to the plate. The fans were yelling for a base knock as the elongated member of the burnermen prepared to crash the picture. Moir sent across a perfect strike and with a smack the sound echoed through the grandstand. Lamb crashed the ball out between left and center field and Preston came scampering home—the ball game was over, and Rube Lamb was the hero.

Young Corbett Scoring Easy Decision

Young Corbett III threw a hundred lefts at Mike Bazzone, sturdy Pittsburgh middleweight, in a ten-round bout in San Francisco's Dreamland Rink recently, to win a one-sided decision. Corbett is pictured above missing with a left. Bazzone fought most of the battle as pictured, crouching, strictly on the defense. Young Corbett weaved around a gazelle on parade, stopping only long enough to loose a veritable machine-gun attack. Bazzone withstood the plangent stream of punches remarkably.

Rube Lamb's Hit Breaks Up Snappy Ball Fixture

Silent Glows' First Sacker Crashes Out Winning Bingle in Ninth Inning for 6-5 Victory Over Brunson's Boys—Series Deadlocked

With elongated Rube Lamb enacting the hero role, Manager Frank Shandley's Silent Glows eked out a sweet 6-5 victory over Brunson's Boys, yesterday evening at the Royal Athletic Park in the sixth game of the Lower Vancouver Island "A" section softball play-downs.

Lamb gave the thrilling nine-inning battle the storybook complexion, when he poked out the winning hit in the last inning with two men down, and sent George Preston scampering over the plate with the deciding marker.

The Mainlanders will arrive tomorrow, and while in the city will be the guests of the Victoria C.P.R. Club. A fine programme has been arranged for the entertainment of the visitors.

LAKE HILL WINS
Pushing across the winning run in the tenth frame, Lake Hill softballers eked out a 5-4 triumph over the Seabirds in the second game of the Sunday School Softball League play-offs at Stevenson's Memorial Park. The outcome tied the series at one game all. The next fixture will be played Saturday.

LAST NIGHT'S GAME
Last night's game provided the 700 or more fans with plenty of thrills and quite an assortment of goods.

WINNING HIT
There was no further scoring until the last of the ninth. With two men down and Preston safe on the initial sack after beating out an infield hit, Rube Lamb, Silent Glows' first sacker, came to the plate. The fans were yelling for a base knock as the elongated member of the burnermen prepared to crash the picture. Moir sent across a perfect strike and with a smack the sound echoed through the grandstand. Lamb crashed the ball out between left and center field and Preston came scampering home—the ball game was over, and Rube Lamb was the hero.

CHURCHMEN BEAT BAYS

Register 135 to 117 Victory in Cup Cricket—Smith Makes 66

Splendid batting by Noel Smith, who carried his bat after knocking out six runs, paved the way to victory for Five C's over the Hudson's Bay, Wednesday afternoon at Beacon Hill Park in a Berger Cup match. The final figures were: Hudson's Bay, 117 for nine wickets; Five C's, 135.

Hudson's Bay won the toss and batted first. Runs came slowly against the steady bowling of Smith and Shrimpton, only thirty runs being scored in the first hour. Norman Tyrrell and Walton put on twenty-eight runs for the seventh wicket, and with a total of 117 for nine wickets, Jim Oakman, Bay's skipper, declared the innings closed, leaving the Five C's with one hour and a half to bat.

Five C's opening batsman went after the runs from the start. Comley made sixteen in short time and then George Payne and Noel Smith took the score to 87 for two wickets. George Payne having seven fours in his bright innings of thirty-six.

Nixon held his end up while Smith got the runs, the latter making the winning hit after seventy minutes of batting. When Smith retired after making sixty-six, including eight fours, the other batsmen fell rapidly against some splendid bowling by Postmaster George Gardiner, who finished up with the fine analysis of four wickets for nine runs in five overs.

Smith and George Payne, of the Five C's, and Baker of the Hudson's Bay had identical figures, getting three wickets each for twenty-seven runs.

MAINLANDER GAINS QUARTER-FINALS IN CANADIAN TOURNEY

Long-Driving Vancouver Star Scores Two More Impressive Victories at Winnipeg Course—Todd and Black Eliminated—Somerville, Haas and Reith Advance

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer
ST. CHARLES COUNTRY CLUB, WINNIPEG, Aug. 6 (AP)—C. R. "Sandy" Somerville, of the London Hunt Club, swept, silently as ever, into the semi-finals of the Canadian Amateur Golf tournament today, seeking his sixth national title with two Westerners and a ranking American remaining to challenge his rule.

Last to complete the quarter-final matches, Somerville trimmed twenty-two-year-old Stew Vickers, of Calgary, 4 and 3, in the afternoon after disposing of Joe Thompson, Hamilton, Ont., 2 up in the morning round.

The thirty-two-year-old Ontario Scot was joined in the fours by Fred Haas, New Orleans; Stan Leonard, Vancouver, and Bobby Reith, Winnipeg.

Haas defeated Ernie Palmer, Winnipeg, 6 and 5 in the fifth round; Leonard defeated J. G. Adams, Toronto, 2 up, and Reith ousted Bob Proctor, Edmonton, 3 and 2.

Reith and Leonard will engage in an all-Western semi-final over thirty-six holes tomorrow, teeing off at 10.15 a.m. (8.15 a.m. P.S.T.), while Somerville and Haas will clash in the second match.

BLACK USHERS OUT
A day of fine golf, despite a tricky breeze that caused considerable wildness on wood shots and long irons, saw the elimination of one of the favorites, Ken Black, of Vancouver, who fell before the sharp shooting of J. G. "Sonny" Adams, of Toronto, Ontario amateur champion.

The Black-Adams match was the day's most exciting. Adams took three-hole lead in the first nine holes, only to see it wiped out by the par-carrier efforts of the Coast ace. Adams regained a one-hole lead and saved the match with a thirty-four put for a half in birdie 4's on the home green.

Adams fell before Stan Leonard on the eighteenth green, as the Vancouver youth snared a birdie 4 to win 2 up.

Adams and Leonard attracted the largest gallery of the day. Leonard was consistently on par on the way out, cutting a stroke from the standard on the 395-yard seventh.

Adams lost the second hole with a 5, but came back on the third with a birdie 3 to even matters.

The match was ding-dong from then on, Adams winning the fifth with a birdie 4, but going over par on the sixth. Stan's pair of 3's, one on the seventh and eighth, gave him his margin at the turn.

LEONARD ADVANCES
Leonard increased his lead to 3 with par on the tenth, but went over the standard on the twelfth and again was 2 up. Sonny's birdie 3 on the seventeenth cut the lead to 1 and excitement was intense as they came down the last fairway.

Leonard spanked two magnificent woods to reach the green, while Adams was short with his third. Sonny was twenty-five feet away with his run-up approach, and he walked over to shake hands with the Coast star, conceding the match.

The cards:
Par out—444 453 435—36
Leonard—444 453 335—36
Adams—453 444 445—37
Par in—434 553 445—37—36—73
Leonard—435 453 544—37—35—72
Adams—554 543 535—37—37—74

Somerville, whose play all week had been almost mediocre, although he seemed to have the punch when it was needed, displayed that punch in earnest in defeating Vickers.

THE TUTTS... By Crawford Young

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

INFLATION

What is inflation? In England and other English-speaking countries, inflation used to convey such various and innocent thoughts as dilating a balloon, expanding the lungs, and swelling with pride.

It was in the United States that the word became, in addition, particularly associated with currency indicating fictitious enlargement, paper money, undue increase from over-issue and other economic high inflation concerning which there are those who, as Tennyson said, "inflate themselves with some insane delusion," and about which even he who is ever on the run incessantly hears, reads and is forewarned at every turn.

Inflation has an origin as arresting as it is significant. We have it from the Latin "inflare"—to blow in!

Campaigning for Separate Status

LADYSMITH, Aug. 6.—H. Despard Twigg, of Victoria, was in this city this morning, in connection with the campaign now being organized to procure separate provincial status for Vancouver Island.

Mr. Twigg, who is secretary of the Vancouver Island Provincial Association, was on his way Up-Island forming contact committees, who will review and report on the progress of local separatist sentiment.

Jane Dixon Says:

ROUND-UP DAY! THE PROBLEM OF THE DESERTED MOTHER—THE GIRL WHO CONTEMPLATES MARRYING ONE MAN WHILE LOVING ANOTHER—A GIRL, FIFTEEN, WANTS TO KNOW WHETHER SHE COULD BE HAPPY BY MARRYING A BOY WHO DRINKS TOO MUCH.

ROUND-UP. We start on a sad note, but it is the note that turned up first in the round-up basket, so we'll take the rain with the sunshine and see what we can do to make the sun pop through.

Margaret: Your case is in the Child's Welfare Office. Sometimes public office, due to political appointment, grows stale. But—there are always individual helpers in such an office who will give you the advice you need if you insist on the service and demand action. If you fail to get it write to the mayor of your city, the governor of your State, the President of the United States. You are a mother bring into life a future citizen of your country. You are entitled to service, justice, and you will get it, if you insist on it, clamor for it. Only fear can defeat your purpose. Buckle on your sword and your armour for your child, and set forth with a will to bring the father of your child to his duty.

Worried: Never would I advise a young woman to marry one man while she "dearly loves" another. You love "A." You hope that now he has a job he will propose to you. "B," who can furnish you with a home and many comforts, and whom you like for "company," is urging you to marry him. Have you told him your heart is elsewhere? Better do so. Because if you yielded to his urging without telling him the facts about your affections, you would not only be cheating an unsuspecting victim out of his right to true happiness, but you would be throwing matches in a powder keg, hoping the keg would not blow up. Better stick to your job for a while and be friendly with both suitors. Meantime let "A" know that you have a proposal of marriage. If he loves you and is looking forward to a future with you, he will tell you so.

THEY ARE PLAYING AT LOVE

Worried Love: You're fifteen, and you tell me you have been going with a boy and been in love with him for two years. He's seventeen. Nice boy but "he drinks a lot." He will not need your advice to be more temperate. He gets angry, leaves you, but always comes back. Do I think the two of you would get on together if you accepted his proposal to marry him now? I don't think I know. You would not get on together. You have been children playing at love. Why not give yourselves a chance to grow up? See if the boy's drinking too much is the result of youthful folly or a weak spine. If he will not behave himself for his sweetheart you may be reasonably certain he will not behave for his wife.

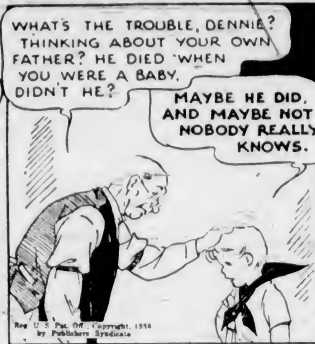

Lonely: Whether you are old enough at sixteen to have boys call on you is a matter for your parents to decide. Why not ask them to allow you to invite some of your boy and girl friends to call on you together? Make it a question of friendship, not of courtship. My crowd of boys and girls traveled in a pack and we had grand fun.

College Seekers: The avenue which offered help to young students and which was mentioned in this column is closed. I'm sorry. If another is found I shall post it here.

Dismal: You are nineteen. The young man is eighteen. I see no harm in your being good friends; but I do think it would be better if you would limit your interest in one another to friendship until he is somewhat more mature. You are a woman, not a child. You should be able to address your parents like a woman. Explain to them that you have outgrown "the red" and that you will no longer submit to it. Tell them that their attitude has driven you to deception and to misery, but that from now on you expect to tell them the truth without exposing yourself to physical violence.

Services on the International Joint Commission and as head of the Ontario Hydro Commission were also included in the recital of the
